2-2013

Bringing the Human Component to Your Online Classroom

Elizabeth Lane
Goodwin College

Tamara Webb
Goodwin College

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.goodwin.edu/gen_fac_pres
Part of the Online and Distance Education Commons

Recommended Citation

Lane, Elizabeth and Webb, Tamara, "Bringing the Human Component to Your Online Classroom" (2013). Faculty Presentations. Book 2.
http://digitalcommons.goodwin.edu/gen_fac_pres/2

This Research Poster is brought to you for free and open access by the Department of General Education at DigitalCommons@Goodwin. It has been accepted for inclusion in Faculty Presentations by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@Goodwin. For more information, please contact mnowlan@goodwin.edu.
The “H” Factor

Bringing the Human Component to Your Online Classroom

H: Hands on presence in the online classroom minimizes your students’ frustration and maximizes learning.

U: Utilize relevant student-centered technology that engages your students proactively.

M: Model the online classroom behaviors you desire from your students.

A: Address the unique needs of your asynchronous learners.

N: Navigation of your classroom is consistent, logical, and student focused.

I appreciate [you] for always emailing me back within a timely manner and making time to meet with me when I was unsure about an assignment.

All User Activity Inside Content Areas

User Activity in Forums

Overall Summary of User Activity

Presented at the Educause Learning Initiative Annual Conference, Denver, Colorado, February 2013